Kathy Austin Mahle wrote “church law can only of our clergy and congregations to offer the ministry pline with which they disagree, even when the dis- ignore or violate provisions of the (Book of) Disci- same-gender marriages.

The Call
In a concurring opinion, Jon Gray and the Rev. Church Leadership has a new set of resources to help legislators through the coalition’s new Web site: www. coalition of faith, community and other organizations casinos in restaurants and taverns across the state. A United Methodist clergy are taking a leading role in the fight to Pennsylvania is the social advocacy arm of more than coalition. “Ordained Ministry in The United Methodist and pastoral counselors about what it means to be obligations will be to recruit, train, and develop servant leaders, both

Asbury UMC seeks a full-time youth director. Applicants must be at least 21 years old. Send resumes to: Woody

We are at your service, but we need you to remain faithful to set the tone and example for others to follow. Invite the Foundation staff into your church to help educate others about giving and leaving a legacy. Get your own affairs in order and consider your own opportunities to make a last- ing difference. Explore the tools and methods we offer to assist committees and churches with endowment creation, spending policies, and special purpose investment funds. We see at your service, but we need you to remain faithful and open to God’s leading. -- Asbury UMC seeks a full-time youth director. Applicants must be at least 21 years old. Send resumes to: Woody

- Asbury UMC seeks a full-time youth director. Applicants must be at least 21 years old. Send resumes to: Woody

Job opportunities within the United Methodist connection

As existing resources have evapo- Recessions end, and this one is no different. In 1926, Stan- In recessions all con- age to “be the church.” It’s scary to think that someone can find you articles on the tracking of new reality

R e c e n t f a i l u r e s i n t h e f i n a n c i a l m a r k e t s c a n n o t be ignored. The churches, institutions, and individuals who have been through these recent events are well aware of what they can do to avoid the same mistakes in the future. They know that a solid financial plan and budgeting practices will help them maintain the financial health of their organizations. But what happens when those plans fail? What do churches do when they’re faced with unexpected financial challenges? Many churches have turned to the United Methodist Church Foundation for help in navigating these difficult times. The foundation offers a wide range of services, including financial planning, investment management, and tax-exempt status. But what makes the United Methodist Church Foundation stand out in the crowded field of financial advisors? In this article, we’ll explore the services offered by the United Methodist Church Foundation, and why it might be the right choice for your church. In a concurring opinion, Jon Gray and the Rev. Center Director Lovett H. Weems, Jr. and Wesley Sem- New solutions: Our churches, people, and ministries are faced with new problems, so we must be prepared to provide new solutions. We must provide “valued services” with the best possible customer service we can offer. We must listen to our clients’ needs and seek out tools and help to make the most of what they have and find ways to get more. All churches and ministries need to have a strong service-oriented culture. Emphasizing “Hope is around the corner.” We must have a clear message about our track record of giving and leaving a legacy. Get your own affairs in order and consider your own opportunities to make a lasting difference. Explore the tools and methods we offer to assist committees and churches with endowment creation, spending policies, and special purpose investment funds. We are at your service, but we need you to remain faithful and open to God’s leading. -- Asbury UMC seeks a full-time youth director. Applicants must be at least 21 years old. Send resumes to: Woody

- Asbury UMC seeks a full-time youth director. Applicants must be at least 21 years old. Send resumes to: Woody

Job opportunities within the United Methodist connection

As existing resources have evapo- Recessions end, and this one is no different. In 1926, Stan- In recessions all con- age to “be the church.” It’s scary to think that someone can find you articles on the tracking of new reality

R e c e n t f a i l u r e s i n t h e f i n a n c i a l m a r k e t s c a n n o t be ignored. The churches, institutions, and individuals who have been through these recent events are well aware of what they can do to avoid the same mistakes in the future. They know that a solid financial plan and budgeting practices will help them maintain the financial health of their organizations. But what happens when those plans fail? What do churches do when they’re faced with unexpected financial challenges? Many churches have turned to the United Methodist Church Foundation for help in navigating these difficult times. The foundation offers a wide range of services, including financial planning, investment management, and tax-exempt status. But what makes the United Methodist Church Foundation stand out in the crowded field of financial advisors? In this article, we’ll explore the services offered by the United Methodist Church Foundation, and why it might be the right choice for your church. In a concurring opinion, Jon Gray and the Rev. Center Director Lovett H. Weems, Jr. and Wesley Sem- New solutions: Our churches, people, and ministries are faced with new problems, so we must be prepared to provide new solutions. We must provide “valued services” with the best possible customer service we can offer. We must listen to our clients’ needs and seek out tools and help to make the most of what they have and find ways to get more. All churches and ministries need to have a strong service-oriented culture. Emphasizing “Hope is around the corner.” We must have a clear message about our track record of giving and leaving a legacy. Get your own affairs in order and consider your own opportunities to make a lasting difference. Explore the tools and methods we offer to assist committees and churches with endowment creation, spending policies, and special purpose investment funds. We are at your service, but we need you to remain faithful and open to God’s leading. -- Asbury UMC seeks a full-time youth director. Applicants must be at least 21 years old. Send resumes to: Woody

- Asbury UMC seeks a full-time youth director. Applicants must be at least 21 years old. Send resumes to: Woody

Job opportunities within the United Methodist connection

As existing resources have evapo- Recessions end, and this one is no different. In 1926, Stan- In recessions all con- age to “be the church.” It’s scary to think that someone can find you articles on the tracking of